1. Early in May 1955, a Soviet health mission was touring Hungary. No official statements have been made concerning this visit and the hospitals inspected were only advised the day before of the arrival of the mission.
2. The County Hospital of Szeged was inspected by seven Soviet physicians and nine "hospital experts"; the Szolnok Military Hospital was visited by four Soviet doctors and a number of "hospital experts"; the old Elizabeth Hospital in Sopron was visited by five Soviet doctors.
3. At one of the hospitals, while the "experts" inspected the administrative offices, a Soviet doctor through an interpreter talked about new and excellent pharmaceuticals made in the Soviet Union. One of them was developed by Doctor Nazarov (fnu); it was called Promedol, and had the treble effect of Morphine. It was described as an excellent anodyne.
